3 PACKAGE TOURS AND BUSINESS TRIPS

3.1 Purposes of Processing. In order for us to provide you with our services, we need to process certain personal data about you. We mainly process your personal data in order to fulfil our contractual obligations to you, to deliver the services that you have purchased from us and also to negotiate deals and conclude a contract based on the services that you have selected. The processing of data for individual purposes within the context of providing services and fulfilling all related obligations is described in more detail below:

3.1.1 Securing Accommodation. Part of organising a package tour or business trip is to provide accommodation at your destination. For this purpose, your personally identifiable information and contact details, as well as information on your preferences (particularly when it pertains to meals or other special requirements), will be processed and transmitted to accommodation providers, including hotels, hostels, boarding houses, apartment rentals or lodges.

3.1.2 Arranging Transportation. When organising a package tour or business trip for our customers, we also arrange transportation. For making these arrangements, we need you to provide us with your basic personally identifiable information, as well as any potential information regarding your personal preferences (mainly in regard to meals and other special requirements), so that we can transmit this information to the appropriate transportation companies.

- 3.1.3 Arranging Travel Visas. Part of organising a package tour or business trip is to arrange for a travel visa for the country of destination. For this purpose, we will process your personally identifiable information, passport details and, if applicable, all other data required by the state for issuing a visa.
- 3.1.4 Providing Customer Service at Your Destination. When arranging sight-seeing tours or business trips, we will, in some cases, provide customer support services at your destination through our delegates. Delegates may keep your basic personally identifiable information and contact details on hand for purposes of providing customer support.
- 3.1.5 Complaints. If the customer suspects defective performance on the part of our company, they are entitled to file a complaint in accordance with applicable civil law. Handling customer complaints is a part of the contractual performance between you and the company and is also one of our statutory obligations.
- 3.1.6 Sending Reminders. If you do not pay an overdue invoice for services that we have provided in a timely manner, then we may send you payment reminders until the amount has been remitted.
- 3.1.7 Establishment, Exercise and Defence of Legal Claims. Upon termination of the contractual relationship, we may also retain some of your personal data, the processing of which is necessary for protecting our rights and for the possible defence of legal claims, including the recovery of unsettled payments, for the duration of the limitation period.
- 3.1.8 Accounting and Tax Documents. Certain personal information may be included in accounting documents (especially invoices). Under valid laws and regulations (such as the Accounting Act or the Value Added Tax Act), we are required to retain these documents for a period of up to 10 years. If a situation arises where we must archive these documents for legal purposes, then any of your personal data found on a relevant tax document will be stored together with these documents.
- 3.1.9 For cases where booking airline tickets, arranging travel insurance, and/or reserving a car hire are included in your tour or business trip package, you will find information about the associated processing below in paragraphs 4.6, 4.7, and 4.8.
- 3.2 Legal Basis for Processing. Legal grounds for the processing of personal data for purposes mentioned above include fulfilling both contractual or statutory obligations and processing for our legitimate interests as needed. A legitimate interest is a legal basis for the processing of data, especially in cases where the customer is a legal entity and we are processing personal data of their contacts, or in cases where we are processing personal data of the customer's family members, guests, or other travellers as stated in the travel contract, where these persons are not considered the direct contractual party with our company.
- 3.3 Scope of Processed Data. For the purposes mentioned above, we process personal data on travellers that are provided under a contractual agreement, or as part of the utilisation of our services. This includes, in particular, the following details on passengers or their legal representatives:
- personally identifiable information (name, surname, date of birth, gender, nationality, residence address);
 - contact details (email address, phone number);
 - details from your identification cards (passport number, ID card number);
 - details regarding travel permits (visas, etc.) if they are relevant for the given route;

- information regarding personal preferences (particularly in regard to meals or other special requirements).

- 3.4 Sources of Personal Data. We process personal information provided to us by the customer in order to negotiate the conclusion of a contract or other legal relationship and the process thereof. We can reasonably verify certain personal data from publicly available registers, directories and records (e.g. business register, trade register, insolvency register, etc.).
- 3.5 Processing Period. If the law does not provide for a longer processing period, we will keep your personal data for the term of the contract and further for the duration of the limitation period on the grounds of our legitimate interests, which include establishing, protecting and exercising our legal claims and demonstrating that our statutory obligations and other obligations are being met, for example in the case of initiating tax proceedings or conducting inspections on behalf of the trade office. In the event that a litigation, investigation or any other legal proceeding presented before a competent public authority or executed by competent public authorities is expected to continue, even after the expiry of the limitation period, then personal data may be retained until the legal case has been completely closed.

We also provide you with the following services related to the tourism industry that require us to process personal data for a limited period of time for the following purposes and based on the following legal grounds:

4.1 SELLING OUR PACKAGE TOURS THROUGH THIRD PARTIES
